

VOTING INFORMATION FOR ELECTORS

The Australian Electoral Commission will be providing a mobile polling service at this establishment in the two weeks leading up to polling day.

This means voting can be conducted in similar conditions to those provided at a polling place, including being able to vote in complete privacy, without electors having to attend an external polling place.

If these arrangements do not suit your personal circumstances, you may still apply for a postal vote. Postal vote applications are available from the AEC website, from any AEC office or by contacting the AEC on 13 23 26.

VOTING INFORMATION FOR ELECTORS

The Australian Electoral Commission will be providing a mobile polling service at this establishment in the two weeks leading up to polling day.

This means voting can be conducted in similar conditions to those provided at a polling place, including being able to vote in complete privacy, without electors having to attend an external polling place.

If these arrangements do not suit your personal circumstances, you may still apply for a postal vote. Postal vote applications are available from the AEC website, from any AEC office or by contacting the AEC on 13 23 26.

VOTING INFORMATION FOR ELECTORS

The Australian Electoral Commission will be providing a mobile polling service at this establishment in the two weeks leading up to polling day.

This means voting can be conducted in similar conditions to those provided at a polling place, including being able to vote in complete privacy, without electors having to attend an external polling place.

If these arrangements do not suit your personal circumstances, you may still apply for a postal vote. Postal vote applications are available from the AEC website, from any AEC office or by contacting the AEC on 13 23 26.